

Announcing Scholarship Opportunity

The 12th Annual PROMIS[®] International Conference

Shaping Better Health Through Patient-Reported Insights: Utilizing PROMIS to Advance Care and Improve Health Systems

22-23 October 2026 – Prague, Czechia

The PROMIS Health Organization (PHO) is offering scholarships to participate in this conference. It's an opportunity to expand your network and share your research.

PROMIS measures are increasingly used in applied research and clinical practice to ensure the patient's voice is included in healthcare and ultimately to improve health outcomes.

The Annual PROMIS International Conference brings together clinicians, researchers, health system administrators, government and regulatory agencies, pharmaceutical and technology industries, and business entities that provide services utilizing patient outcomes. They will gather to share their experiences and advances utilizing PROMIS measures.

The scholarship includes:

- Conference registration and meals included in the conference program
- PHO Membership for 2027
- 3 nights hotel room

To apply, complete the application on the next page and submit your curriculum vitae and a statement (up to 250 words) on 1) your interest and experience with PROMIS and 2) how your participation will make a difference for patients, providers, and researchers at your institution.

Applicants must submit an abstract for the conference that includes PROMIS data or your protocol to collect data in order to be considered for a scholarship award. Click for the Call for Abstracts. Deadline: April 17, 2026

Eligibility: Graduate students, medical trainees, post-doctoral fellows and early career investigators within 5 years of completing their highest degree. Previous scholarship recipients are ineligible.

Scholarship Application Deadline: April 17, 2026. Winners will be notified by June 30, 2026.
